What can you expect to pay for your supplies?

There are no prices listed in our catalog because the price you pay will vary depending on your type of insurance and insurance coverage. We will verify your benefits and notify you of any cost before we ship your supplies.

If you have Medicare coverage: Byram Healthcare accepts Medicare assignment on many items. Medicare reimburses 80% of its allowed amount (or product value) for each item. Your out-of-pocket expense is the remaining 20%. If you have a supplemental insurance policy you may have no out-of-pocket cost.*

How many supplies will my insurance company pay for?

The table on the following page outlines the quantity of urological supplies that Medicare will reimburse for in a given amount of time. Medicare and most private insurance plans do not cover incontinence supplies. If you require these supplies and have a Medicaid benefit, your supplies may be covered. Please contact your Byram Healthcare specialist at 1-800-364-6057 for questions specific to your insurance. Many health plans follow Medicare's guidelines. Higher quantities may be available, depending on specific medical reasons documented by your physician.

Am I able to obtain my supplies while under home care?

There is truly no place like home. If you are being treated at home by a visiting nurse, depending on your insurance, Byram may be able to continue providing your medical supplies.

If you have Medicare coverage: If you require urological or incontinence supplies while under home care, the agency is responsible for your supplies.

If you have private insurance or Medicaid: Depending on your insurance, Byram may be able to provide your urological or incontinence[†] supplies while under home care. Byram is a direct provider with over 600 private insurance plans, including Managed Medicare and Managed Medicaid plans, as well as many state Medicaid programs. Our insurance expertise and knowledge will ensure that we maximize your supply benefit while minimizing any out-of-pocket expense.

*Numbers are estimates and will be based upon plan coverage.

†Medicaid coverage varies by state.

Catheter Insurance Coverage

Sterile Intermittent Catheter Kit/Closed System Reimbursement Guidelines

Medicare will cover sterile technique intermittent catheterization when it is medically necessary. At least one of the following requirements must be met:

- Patient resides in a nursing facility
- Patient is immunosuppressed
- Patient has radiologically documented vesico-ureteral reflux while on an intermittent catheterization program
- Patient is a spinal cord injured female with neurogenic bladder (during pregnancy only)
- Patient has had distinct, recurring urinary tract infections (UTI) while on a program of clean intermittent catheterization. A patient is considered to have recurring UTIs if they experience a minimum of two documented UTIs within a 12-month period, while on a program of clean intermittent catheterization A4351/A4352 with lubricant A4332.

A patient would be considered to have a UTI if they have a urine culture with greater than 10,000 colony forming units of a urinary pathogen AND concurrent presence of one or more of the following signs or symptoms per urine culture:

- Increased muscle spasms
- Back pain
- Fever (oral temperature greater than 100.4°F [38°C])
- Pyuria (seen on dipstick or UA)
- Change in urinary frequency, urgency, or incontinence
- Physical signs of prostatitis, orchitis, epididymitis
- Appearance of new or increase in autonomic dysreflexia (sweating, bradycardia, blood pressure elevation)

Items marked with "M" are Medicare Reimbursable.

Byram accepts assignment on most products covered by Medicare. The patient is responsible for any deductible, co-payment, or items not covered by Medicare, which Byram will bill to your Medicare Supplemental Insurance. Please see page 4 for additional information.

Catheter Insurance Coverage

Coudé Tip Insurance Coverage

A Coudé, or curved tip catheter is sometimes needed when a straight tip catheter is not easily inserted. There are various clinical reasons why this catheter may be prescribed and its recommendation is always at the discretion of your health care provider. A coudé catheter is not the most commonly used catheter, but it is certainly an excellent option in some situations. If your health care provider prescribes a coudé tip, Byram and your insurer will require documentation stating the reason you are unable to pass a straight tip catheter.

Medicare Allowable Amounts

In April 2008, Medicare changed the reimbursement of intermittent catheters from 4 to 200 per month. Intermittent catheters should not be washed and reused. These catheters are single use devices.

If you require more than the 200 catheters per month designated by Medicare, your doctor will need to note why you need more and send the documentation to Byram Healthcare. If you have experienced two or more symptomatic, documented UTIs within 12 months while on a program of catheterizing, then you may qualify for a higher quantity of intermittent catheters or sterile intermittent catheter kits.

Types of Catheters

Byram Healthcare offers a large variety of catheters to meet the specific needs of each of our patients. Below is a brief description of each catheter type.

Intermittent catheter: A straight tip catheter made of a variety of different materials (rubber, vinyl, latex, or silicone).

Intermittent Hydrophilic catheter: This catheter is ideal for children or adult patients since it easily glides through the urethra. The “slippery” coating is activated by dipping the catheter in either water or normal saline solution.

Intermittent Coude catheter: This catheter has a curved tip and is ideal for patients with enlarged prostates, urethral narrowing or scar tissue.

Closed System Intermittent Catheter and Bag: This catheter is prelubricated and has a collection bag that is attached to the catheter. It is not only convenient but also touchless which allows it to be inserted into the urethra without contamination.

Intermittent Catheter Kits: All of the above catheters are available with insertion supplies which then classifies them as a “kit.” Catheter kits are ideal for patients who have a history of Urinary Tract Infections or who are immunosuppressed. Additional documentation from the healthcare provider is required for a catheter kit.

Urinary Tract Infections

Urinary Tract Infections are not uncommon in individuals who intermittently catheterize. However, it is important to try to prevent UTIs for optimal health. A UTI can lead to a more serious infection if it goes from the bladder up into the kidneys and into the bloodstream. Although there are many effective antibiotics to treat UTIs, it is much better to prevent a UTI and the need for medication.

Common causes of UTIs related to Intermittent Catheterization:

- Inadequate fluid intake
- Inadequate frequency of emptying your bladder
- Incomplete emptying of your bladder when you catheterize
- Poor technique allows bacteria to travel up your urinary tract with the catheter
 - Unwashed hands and/or equipment can harbor bacteria

Byram accepts assignment on most products covered by Medicare. The patient is responsible for any deductible, co-payment, or items not covered by Medicare, which Byram will bill to your Medicare Supplemental Insurance. Please see page 4 for additional information.

Education

Symptoms of a UTI?

- Fever, Chills
- Leakage between catheterizations
- Increased bladder spasms
- Feeling the need to catheterize more often or immediately
- Burning sensation in the urethra
- Nausea
- Feeling lousy or tired
- Sediment (gritty particles) in your urine
- Cloudy, bloody or foul smelling urine

How do I know if I have a UTI?

Your doctor can do a simple urine test to determine if there are bacteria in your urine. This test will also help to identify the correct antibiotic for you. If your doctor prescribes an antibiotic treatment, take your medication exactly as prescribed until it is finished. Be sure to call your doctor with any side effects from the medication.

What can I do to help prevent UTIs?

- Wash your hands thoroughly before starting the catheterization procedure
- Wash your genitalia with soap and water (front to back for women)
- Preferable: To minimize E. Coli bacteria contamination of the urethra, catheterize before your bowel program
- Be careful that the tip of the catheter does not touch ANYTHING prior to use
- Catheterize as often as your doctor instructed: usually 4-6 times a day
- Drink plenty of fluids, especially water
- If you experience frequent UTI's, speak with your doctor to see if sterile intermittent catheter kits may be right for you

Coloplast® Self-Cath® Closed System Single Units

The Self-Cath Closed System is a unisex system that provides a method for safe, simple catheterization. The introducer tip aids in the reduction of bacterial contamination of the catheter during insertion. The tight seal secures the cap, protecting the introducer tip from further contamination. Tips and Timesavers

The greatest amount of bacteria is located within the first 15 mm of the urethra. Some closed system catheters have an introducer tip that helps to shield the catheter from this initial bacteria upon insertion. The insertion tip also avoids direct hand contact with the catheter to further prevent infection.

Byram accepts assignment on most products covered by Medicare. The patient is responsible for any deductible, co-payment, or items not covered by Medicare, which Byram will bill to your Medicare Supplemental Insurance. Please see page 4 for additional information.

Tips and Timesavers

How do I know what size catheter to use?

Catheters come in a range of sizes. A catheter is measured using the French scale, which indicates the diameter of the catheter. The larger the French size, the wider the catheter. Your health care professional will determine what size catheter is appropriate for you.

See what our customers are saying about us:

“Last week I was at the end of my tether trying to find diapers for my M.R. little boy. I called and visited a number of outlets who either gave me the ‘run-around’ or treated me like they didn’t understand what I was requesting. I finally got your number and a lovely professional young woman named Sara assisted me and did exactly what she promised! It was almost too easy. She is a model employee and an excellent representation of what your industry should strive for. Thank you.”

“We would just like to say thank you to Byram Healthcare for their exceptional customer service. It went over and beyond our expectations. You made it so easy and took such good care of us during this difficult time. You are to be commended for providing such excellent service and eliminating any worries or anxiety... Thank you again with our sincere gratitude.”
